arthur godfrey broken wings

I am the son of a Boston Firefighter and grew up in the city during the 1960s and 1970s. My own 'road less traveled' has led me to a place where I could write about my own frailty and prejudice. The songs on broken wings were born there and address my walk through some of life's most difficult trials: Race, Religion, War, Family, the Homeless, the Impaired, Death and Self.

— Arthur Godfrey

“Arthur is the real deal and his new record proves it. Heartfelt, well-crafted songs are what I like and there are plenty on broken wings. Give this man's new CD a chance or I will personally come and 'kick your ass' and don't think I won't.”

— Paul Thorn, Singer/Songwriter

“There is something holy about putting your heart and truth on the line in a song. Arthur Godfrey does it beautifully, and he is not kidding. broken wings is a wonderful record.”

— Mary Gauthier, Singer/Songwriter

“Beautifully tattered, wasted male folk threading Americana, Country and Blues.”

— CD Baby

“Arthur Godfrey is a deeply moving storyteller with a vocal grace and an acute heart.”

— Sean Penn
